Innovative SAIs going F.A.R.

In the current crisis being Flexible, Agile and Resilient are three qualities key for any SAI. Seeking to adopt new innovations and finding new solutions is central to a SAI to stay relevant for the benefit of all.

During the Innovative SAIs going F.A.R. series, we will explore how Supreme Audit Institutions can adopt innovative audit practices to stay relevant, embrace the principle of “leave no one behind” and deliver value and benefits to all. By operating as flexible, agile and resilient institutions, SAIs will be able to go F.A.R.

Our going FAR discussions endeavour to look at SAI innovations from an institutional and a people perspective, from technological and social perspective; from the perspective of what is fit for purpose for SAIs with diverse capacities and local contexts.

Please join us in the shared journey to go F.A.R.

In today's rapidly changing environment, both the SAls as institutions and individuals working in SAls need to adapt and innovate. Innovative SAls going F.A.R. will discuss the possibilities and challenges of being innovative, both at organisational and individual levels. The focus will be on innovating to support SAls to find new ways of working and fulfilling their mandates to continue being relevant in these changing times.

In the discussions we will cherish and highlight that innovations, from technological to social, can be found everywhere, and we should look for them through fit-for-purpose and fit-for-context lenses in order to create those innovations which could apply in our own context.

In the first framing webinar(s) for the Innovative SAls going F.A.R., we will frame the SAI Innovations Initiative and theme Innovative SAls going F.A.R., and we will also be hearing interesting and innovative experiences from both other SAls and our external stakeholders. The webinar(s) will consist of short opening remarks, panel discussion and open floor for your experiences and questions.
